I trust you are well.

Thank you for your response. To clarify, we erroneously sent the incorrect email on 18 November to which we received your query: "I fail to understand what you are actually requesting from us and why you would request such from us. This should be directed at the suppliers to the restaurant trade, not the restaurants themselves."

We subsequently attempted to recall that message and sent the correct request on 21 November (attached). The email of 21 November is the one for which we are requesting confirmation of receipt. We believe the updated request should deal with your original concerns, however we have also attempted to answer this below. We are happy to discuss further with you.

We have written to you as the Information Officer of Papachinos on the basis that Papachinos sells several egg and/or egg related products in their restaurants. Papachinos, as an entity in the sale of egg and egg related products to consumers, is thus a key role player in the egg supply chain. You will note from our letter that some of the information requested relates to (among other issues) Papachinos' internal policies regarding animal welfare and environmental matters; records concerning Papachinos suppliers in the egg supply chain; as well as Papachinos own commitments to utilize eggs in its products only from layer hens not housed in cages. We have also asked for details of assets and stocks, and these would relate to details of products sold that include eggs as an ingredient. The full details of our request are detailed therein and we have included the required legal forms.

We trust this clarifies our request, however please don't hesitate to reach out if you have further questions. We trust you will furnish records as requested in our PAIA request in terms of your statutory obligations.

We look forward to hearing from you.
